Opposites Tests Technique Guidance and Introduction

These tests are difficult because you have no contextual clues to help you. There are no special techniques which can help you other than working ACTIVELY. Please do not just stare at the word, work actively.

Opposites Test Version 1

Complete the word on the right so that is has a similar meaning to the word on the left.

Example question:

HOME A _ _ _ AD

You might think of AWAY as a possible opposite but this does not fit. The ending is already there so there is no more active work you can do in that area. How about if you think of different types of 'home' – your house, a home for animals, your country. If the answer doesn't come, try some trial and error. How about trying a letter at the beginning such as B so we have AB _ _ AD? The answer is ABROAD.

Opposites Test Version 2

The second type of opposites question puts a word on the left and then asks you to find the most opposite word from four options.

Example Question:

HUMBLE menial modest arrogant successful

The technique points to think about are:

1. Don't leap to the answer, you are looking for the most opposite word and the question may deliberately include synonyms (HUMBLE – MODEST) or word association tricks (HUMBLE – MENIAL) which are easy to leap at without thinking.

2. Watch out for misspelt words or homophones. Sometimes you could find two options such as: SUCCESS AND SUCCESFUL (as SUCCESFUL is a misspelling it couldn't be correct).

3. There will be cases where you may not know the meanings of all the words. In these cases use your common sense to exclude options you know are incorrect. You may only have a sense of what humble means but that may be enough to exclude MODEST (similar meaning) and to exclude MENIAL (unrelated word). This leaves you with SUCCESSFUL and ARROGANT to choose from. If you know what HUMBLE means you could try putting it in a sentence to help you:

'John was very humble and didn't show off despite his achievements and status in life'

This would help you realise that ARROGANT is the correct answer.

REMEMBER TECHNIQUE IS ONLY OF MARGINAL HELP WTH THESE QUESTIONS, CHILDREN WITH A WIDER VOCABULARY WILL DO BETTER.

Check list

- ✓ Use your personal words lists
- ✓ Revise work regularly
- ✓ Do paired reading, especially of classic books

A Childhood in Sparta

In the ancient Greek state of Sparta, life was extremely tough. Sparta was frequently at war with its enemies and was intent on winning every battle. From the moment a Spartan girl or a boy came into the world, the needs of this military and city state dominated every aspect of life. Both male and female babies were examined to see if they were strong enough to be Spartan citizens. If the infants were too weak or sick, they were abandoned in the countryside to die.

Girls did not go to school but they had to take lots of exercise and eat well so that when they grew up they could have strong healthy babies to provide new families of tough Spartans.

When the male Spartans reached the age of seven, they were taken from their mothers and sent to live in special military barracks for thirteen years. In these barracks they slept on stone slabs and were treated cruelly. Discipline was harsh. They were trained in athletics, survival skills, hunting, fighting and weapons handling. They soon learnt how to endure hardship and pain.

At the age of twenty, the male Spartans became soldiers of the state. They lived in barracks and their life was either training to fight or actually fighting for Sparta in their frequent wars. The Spartans rarely lost a battle. They were allowed to marry, but couldn't live with their wives. Only Equals were allowed to live with their wives and children. An Equal was a soldier who had reached the age of thirty without any blemishes on his military record.

If a soldier did not perform his duties he could not be an Equal.
